

JENNIFER GOULD KEIL

REAL ESTATE GIMME SHELTER

Real estate queen buys $10M unit in SoHo's tallest condo

By Jennifer Gould Keil

September 17, 2015 | 3:38am

Real estate maven Jane Goldman, the daughter of late industry titan Sol Goldman, is in contract to buy a three-bedroom, 14th-floor unit at 10 Sullivan, the new luxury condo designed by Cary Tamarkin that will be the tallest residential building in SoHo.

Developed by Property Markets Group and Madison Equities, the unit — just under 3,000 square feet — is in contract for just under $10 million.

Goldman, we hear, loved the unit's private dressing room and 28-foot great room with 11-foot ceiling heights.

The listing brokers in the off-market deal were Douglas Elliman's Andrew Anderson, Emily Sertic and Jared Seligman.

They could not be reached for comment.